

Head of Quality Assurance at NNIT

NNIT is looking for an experienced manager to head our Quality Assurance (QA) function and secure the development of our high standards.

You'll be leading an international team of approximately ten passionate, highly skilled and professional quality specialists located in Denmark, the Czech Republic, China and the Philippines. The main responsibility of the team is to support NNIT's delivery to clients. You will be trusted a central role in maintaining and further developing our QA services, and with your pragmatic approach you will be supporting in problem solving when needed.

Key responsibilities

- Daily management and prioritization of quality service delivery activities
- Initiating and driving quality improvement projects
- Coordinating, driving and communicating the quality agenda to internal and external customers
- Analyzing and reporting data to identify the right improvements together with NNIT's organization
- Raising quality issues at the appropriate organizational level

Qualifications & experience

You are a strong leader with 5+ years of professional management experience. You come from a similar position in an international company within the regulated industry (i.e. life sciences or finance). You have a strong customer focus and experience with working across the entire IT value chain.

You have a solid base of quality and process knowledge and you are highly familiar with quality systems and tools

Furthermore the following skills would be preferred:

- Experience from an industry focusing on computer system validation activities on GxP classified IT projects/systems or similar

- Knowledge of the IT delivery industry, global IT infrastructures, outsourcing or datacenter computing
- An educational background within IT, business, natural sciences, engineering or similar

As a person, you are self-driven, assertive and process-oriented. You have a structured approach to your tasks and possess strong analytical and communication skills. You are a dedicated team player thriving in a dynamic environment with many cross-cultural interfaces.

Finally, you have excellent English and Danish skills both orally and in writing.

The opportunity

The position represents a unique opportunity for a senior managerial career within a fast-growing stock listed IT company. You will be trusted with a central position collaborating across the entire organization together with a competent and highly experienced QA team.

Your personal development will be in focus from the very first day giving you a great opportunity of continuous development both personally, professionally and as a manager. With access to a well-functioned backbone of training, network and a personal development plan.
