Head of Strategy at NNIT

Would you like to make your mark in a highly strategy-driven and fast-growing company? At NNIT, you will be responsible for driving the development of our long-term strategy, executing global strategic initiatives and providing executive management with strategic support.

Your responsibilities

Your overall responsibility will be to develop the current as well as the future NNIT strategy. You will be leading the annual strategy process which requires a strong drive and power of executing. Areas of responsibility include:

- Market analysis and research translated into strategy recommendations to executive management – including the necessary ad-hoc strategic support to CEO
- Stakeholder involvement and condensing of input from many different contributors – from top management to employees to Board of Directors
- Driving cross-organizational strategic projects and secure progress
- Preparing strategy presentations and using your strong communication skills to convey decisions clearly and effectively at all levels in the organization in close collaboration with NNIT's Communications team
- Optimizing the governance of the company management process linking strategy to local business plans

Your qualifications

We expect you to have a self-driven and result-oriented approach to your tasks combined with the ability to create results.

You have more than eight years of experience – preferably from a leading management consultancy or IT company. Alternatively from a business strategy role at a major global organization. It is an advantage if you have deep IT industry knowledge.

You have strong capabilities within:

- Strategic thinking
- Leading projects successfully across a large organization

About NNIT

NNIT is a fast-growing IT company with ambitious goals. We supply IT services to large enterprises, the public sector and the life science industry - customers that demand high levels of quality and security. At NNIT, you can make your mark on some of the most challenging projects in the IT industry, on our journey forward as a company, and on your own career. We take on the responsibility for our clients' IT as if it were our own, and we live our values every day, so you should be able to see yourself in them. We are: Conscience driven. Value adding. Open and honest. We regard diversity as a strength and support equal opportunities for all. We encourage applications from people of all ages, genders, religions and ethnic backgrounds.

- Business and market analysis – with both a logical and quantitative approach
- Flair for economical project management and working with financial goals

Finally, you have a relevant master and broad experience within management consulting, sales and project management. You speak and write English fluently, enabling you to navigate in a global environment with various business partners.

You will join a passionate team

You will join our People, Communications, Quality, Corporate IT and Strategy division. We're a team of highly qualified leaders and employees providing business support and striving to create the best IT workplace. We are strongly committed to NNIT's values, so you must be able to see yourself in them: Conscience driven. Value adding. Open and honest.

The position as Head of Strategy does not include direct reports, but you will be a part of the divisional management team.

We offer

NNIT is as a fast-growing IT company with ambitious goals and a strong culture. Your continuous development is important to us. So you can look forward to collaboration and knowledge sharing with your colleagues at executive level, as well as further development through training in highly recognized international management programs. We offer a wide range of career opportunities across the organization.
